The strait of Dziwna leads towards Wolin, a stronghold of fabulous riches and invincible sea power situated in the vicinity of the depths of the Baltic Sea. Sailors can enter one of the oldest cities of West Pomerania from the Kamień Lagoon in the north or the Szczecin Lagoon in the south. Natural and technical conditions make Wolin a significant yachting center. A yachtsman can choose to moor along a municipal berth, 54 m long, 0.8-3.3 m deep or in a marina that can accommodate 32 boats. Visitors simply must see a heritage park of Vikings and Slavs, Regional Museum, town park and beach encircling the legendary Hill of Hangmen which used to be a place of worship and burial. Yachts and vessels entering Wolin sail under three bridges connecting banks of the Dziwna. The first one is a turn road bridge, 3.1 m clearance, the second is an arch bridge, 12.05 m high above water level and the third is a railway bridge, 12.44 m high.

Marina along the Młyński Canal in Stepnica was built in 2011 and financed by municipality’s resources and grant from the Regional Operational Program. Both banks of the canal were provided with sheeting, 1560 m total, and mooring huts. The canal and its mouth were dredged to reach the depth of 2.5 m. The newly built marina is a picturesque and open-access facility and can accommodate 150 - 300 sports-sailing boats. The Młyński Canal, situated in the northern part of Stepnica, ca. 780 m long and its width varies from 12 to 20 m. The canal is equipped with the so called turning room to handle larger vessels.

The marina is a perfect sailing base. It is provided with water supply and sewerage systems. This is a splendid location for enthusiastic sailors who appreciate comfort and peace and the vicinity of nature. The unique landscape (Nature 2000) attracts lovers of beautiful views and rest in the open. The marina is just 500 m away from the center of Stepnica where shopping facilities, bars and a bank are found.
